It will take us around 1 1/2 - 2 hours to get there and we will spend an hour exploring, enjoying, taking pictures, etc and then have lunch in the cute town of Cashel...one of many cute towns in Ireland! Let's plan to head out by 1pm toward Castle number 2 to kiss the Blarney Stone! Again, make sure you have comfy shoes on! Take your Dramamine because the stairs up and around might make you a bit dizzy, but getting to the top is so worth it! If heights aren't your thing, don't worry one bit! There is plenty to do and see in the castle without climbing and there are beautiful trails for sweet walks through amazing gardens, like the Poison Garden and the Irish Garden. The Blarney House is quite enjoyable as well. After we spend a couple hours exploring we will head out and through Cork toward a cute little town called Kinsale. We will check into our home, and head out for a walk through the town and find a great place to eat. This particular town is right on the water so the seafood should be fantastic!

Breathtaking is the word that comes to mind! This road is small, and we want to take our time! Even though we will only be going about 120 miles, plan on about 4-5 hours getting in and out of the van. We won't be in a hurry so we can stop, check out the polka dot sheep, beautiful views and little shops and restaurants along the way. We will make our way to Dingle and likely arrive later in the evening to check into our home. Dinner along the way or when we arrive in Dingle

Ennis is a fun cute town (yes another) but we are staying off the grid. No Wifi, however there is cable. Our neighbors are some cute dairy cows and amazingly they are downwind so all we smell is the fresh rainy air! If you take a walk down the country roads enjoy the wild blackberries! Delicious!
